Connect your users to the resources they need with a single sign-on OpenAthens simplifies access to your organization's electronic resources. With Integrated Library System (ILS) integration your users get access to all your subscribed resources, whenever they want and wherever they are.

OpenAthens is...

✔ Designed for librarians

OpenAthens lets you provide single sign-on access to your subscribed online resources. Users will have seamless single-click access on-site and easy, secure access when off-network.

Administration tools are librarian orientated, making it quick and easy to manage accounts and introduce new resources. OpenAthens comes with a customizable user portal, MyAthens, which provides quick links to resources and the option to add useful content such as discovery service search boxes or library opening hours.

✔ Flexible

OpenAthens is compatible with the SirsiDynix Symphony platform and has its own REST based API for integration with other ILS vendors and library systems. Making resources another application that works with your own set of usernames and passwords. You can choose to start with the hosted version and then move to the integrated solution when the time is right.

✔ Powerful

OpenAthens provides flexible control for you to granularly manage access rights so different user categories get access to the specific set of resources they need for work or study.

Comprehensive usage statistics show how often content is accessed and by whom, so you can assess the value of your subscriptions. Statistics are available at a user, category and organizational level.

✔ Secure

OpenAthens ensures only authorized users can access your subscribed content, providing an extra layer of security beyond the traditional IP recognition approach. The hosted option is fully supported and on a secure, high availability platform.

"It's an easy-to-manage and easy-to-use product which reduces pressure on the IT department."
